FINE FURNITURE

A GEORGE II KNEEHOLE DESK

England, circa 1730 - 1740

An exceptionally fine early 18th century George II period walnut and pollard oak knee-hole desk with brushing slide and secret compartments. The moulded top veneered in book-matched panels of pollard oak, feather-banded and cross-banded with walnut detailing.

The oak lined drawers similarly veneered, each with original locks and gilt-brass back plates and handles. The central recessed cupboard door with original hinges and escutcheon below a hidden frieze drawer. The cupboard secured in place but removeable, pulling forward to reveal the hidden compartments behind. The sides veneered in book-matched walnut. Raised on shaped original bracket feet.

Superb colour and patina throughout.
